*Supply Point Capacity Charge

A charge is payable in order to move gas through the pipelines. This charge is essentially where gas suppliers reserve space on the gas pipeline on behalf of their customers for the upcoming gas year. The amount of space reserved is called the Supply Point Capacity (SPC). Each gas point has a unique, site-specific SPC. This capacity for Non-Daily Metered Customers is an estimation of peak day consumption, measured in kWh. The estimation methodology is based on the FAR process and has been approved by the Commission for Regulation of Utilities (CRU). Gas Networks Ireland is responsible for estimating SPC for all customers. For a fuller explanation of SPC please visit www.gasnetworks.ie
